VANCOUVER FOUNDATION

Formed in 1943, Vancouver Foundation has grown to become the steward of some 580 endowment funds established by individuals and not-for-profit agencies. Vancouver Foundation is governed by a Volunteer Board of community representatives, and benefits directly from the informed counsel of more than 80 additional volunteers serving on its Advisory Committees. Income derived from the investment of the pooled capital of Vancouver Foundation's endowments is distributed to support the activities of charitable organizations across British Columbia.

Mission

Through the growth and stewardship of permanent endowment funds and the distribution of income to a broad range of eligible organizations, Vancouver Foundation, in meeting community needs, provides philanthropic leadership to improve the quality of life for all British Columbians.

Values

In pursuit of this mission, Vancouver Foundation believes: > that our position within the community is both an opportunity and a responsibility to provide philanthropic leadership; > that the endowment fund is a resource to benefit the people of British Columbia and we commit to steward these funds in a responsible manner; > in open, accessible, respectful, and ethical behaviour in our conduct with all people who come in contact with the foundation; > that our policies, programs and practices should enable and encourage human growth and dignity, inclusiveness, fairness and the equality of all people; > in working as a catalyst within the charitable sector to strengthen community capacity and volunteerism and to find solutions to shared challenges; > in partnerships that seek consensus and respect the integrity and autonomy of participants; > In encouraging and nurturing innovations and managing the risks inherent in creative philanthropy.

Chairman's Message

The opening page of this annual report presents a brief description of Vancouver Foundation together with recently adopted mission and values statements. Our intent in providing this information is to make the Foundation's vision and substance more tangible to those who participate in and are affected by its work. Although the wording and the context in which these statements appear are new, their essence is extracted from the Vancouver Foundation Act, an Act of the Provincial Legislature that established the Foundation.

The judicious management of the endowment capital entrusted by donors to the Foundation remains as ever a foremost priority. As with most funds of this type, we experienced disappointing performance in 1994, followed by encouraging total returns in 1995. To access higher total returns, we endeavour to keep a significant portion of the investments in equity markets. However, since gains from this type of investment are capitalized to the benefit of donor accounts, they are not available for distribution as income. While our capital continues to grow, the present interest rate regime is constraining the level of financial support we are currently able to offer the community.

The Board of the Foundation is active in many additional areas of governance and is also deeply interested in and committed to the process of discretionary grantmaking through our very effective Advisory Committees. After completing my first year as Chairman, I am more convinced that community foundations, individually and collectively, are uniquely positioned to play an important and expanding role in meeting some of the challenges being imposed by changing times. Vancouver Foundation, as a leader in the field of philanthropy, will as always have a key role to play in helping various communities to develop the necessary capacities to be both resourceful and resilient.

The year just past has been a busy one, with great demands placed upon all of those involved with Vancouver Foundation. With deep appreciation, I acknowledge the valuable contribution of each of the many volunteers who serve on our Advisory Committees and Board, and take this opportunity to thank in particular Risa Levine for her participation as a Director. Risa felt obliged to retire from the Board following her appointment to the B.C. Supreme Court.

The Foundation's staff are also to be commended, not only for effectively carrying out their normal duties despite the stresses of an office relocation and a new management information system, but also for rallying with force and dedication to new pressures that have been placed upon the sectors of society and communities we serve.

President's Report

Changing realities require Philanthropic Leadership from community foundations

Canadians are quickly realizing the effects of cutbacks in government spending and the impact these reductions will have on their communities. What they are also beginning to see is that the changes are broad and structural. It is not so much a prioritizing of needs and the strategic elimination of certain programs but rather horizontal cuts across many basic services. While the drive is to erase indebtedness, the effect will be on the quality of community life in all parts of Canada. However, I believe that communities can rise to and surmount these challenges and in the process be stronger and make the country more united.

Communities have, for the most part, the skills and human resources to manage and accommodate the structural change that is underway. They may be latent and need to be developed and marshalled but they are present. Keep in mind the spirit of voluntarism and the resourcefulness of communities before government took on the broad responsibilities they have today. I am confident in the abilities to be found locally and trust in the wisdom of communities to sensibly direct their efforts toward realistic goals.

Richard Mulcaster

Re-writing the social contract will require the active and unselfish cooperation of the government, corporate and not-for-profit sectors. This interdependence is starting to become evident. The Federal government, in its latest budget, made changes within the tax regime that will increase charitable donations. Corporations are recognizing and accepting greater responsibilities for civic participation in the communities from which their profits are generated. The not-for-profit sector, anticipating the financial support of its partners, is steadying itself for the task that it must take on.

The philanthropic sector, including community foundations like Vancouver Foundation as well as family and corporate foundations is also working more purposefully. Each foundation in its own way and often in concert with others, is providing the financial resources to community groups to build community resilience and self-reliance. To do this well, as the title of this Annual Report suggests, requires "more than money". It takes trust, intelligence and sensible leadership. Within Vancouver Foundation the considerations for making grants are fairly straight forward. Is there a demonstrated need? Has the necessary planning been done and are the required skills available? Is the project feasible and financially realistic? Can there be a long-term sustainable benefit? And, most importantly, is the community solidly behind the initiative?

But, the staff of Vancouver Foundation together with the Advisory Committees do so much more than simply assess grant applications. They are in touch with the shifting needs of communities. They help develop ideas. Sometimes they will identify critical gaps and bring together those organizations best able to respond. They will always encourage and work with the enthusiasm and expertise that is present in every community to make things happen - it's called "Philanthropic Leadership". The many grants we make in response to applications from community groups form the bedrock of what we do. But the "value added" component - the initiatives that we've helped introduce and support are key to the work of the Foundation. For example:

- > Developing an appreciation for the arts among school children is important but unfortunately, has not commanded a high priority in educational funding. Therefore the Arts in Education program (see page 9) started by Vancouver Foundation in cooperation with the Provincial Government and School Districts across British Columbia has become crucial.
- > While Vancouver Foundation has been established for more than 50 years, there are more and more community foundations like us being established every year in towns and cities across Canada. The notion of a permanent endowment created by donations from local citizens to provide financial support to meet local needs is taking on tremendous momentum. The community foundations are going to be increasingly important to the ability of locals to adapt to the structural changes taking place nationally. Although not alone, Vancouver Foundation was a key player in the development of an organization called "The Community Foundations of Canada". This national body serves to build and strengthen the community foundation movement and provides a collective voice for its' membership.
- > Recognizing the impacts of government cut-backs and the need to reinforce the capacities of communities and the agencies that serve them - Vancouver Foundation made representations to the House Finance Committee (which was considering proposed tax changes to the 1996 Federal Budget) and worked with "The Community Foundations of Canada" and other key players to inform and educate the policy makers. The resulting changes reflected in the proposed tax framework will be crucial to the ability of the charitable sector to embrace and meet the challenges being presented to it.
- > The profound effects of the societal changes we are facing will soon be realized - in the next two years rather than the next ten. And, whether we have been able to make the necessary shifts in how we meet the needs of our society will depend on how Canadian communities share, communicate and work together.

VANCOUVER FOUNDATION

Creating a Lasting Legacy for Now and Forever

It has been said that the only wealth you keep forever is the wealth which you have given away.

The fact of the matter is that the legacy of our life only lasts for about two generations. Take a minute and think about it. You probably don't have any trouble identifying the names, occupations, dates and places of birth of your parents. And there's a reasonable chance that you can recall the same information about your grandparents, or at least a part of it. But beyond this juncture of the family tree, memories often fail.

If you have the desire to preserve the memory of your family heritage in perpetuity, you may wish to consider the creation of a fund in the name of your family with Vancouver Foundation. You may choose to establish a named family fund through a testamentary provision in your Will. Alternatively, as suited to your personal charitable goals and priorities, you may decide to create a fund now so you can enjoy the satisfaction of giving in your lifetime and receive immediate tax benefits.

You also have the option of designating your family fund as an "open fund", to which contributions may be added by anyone interested in supporting the purposes of the fund and your family members, or a "closed fund" that may be supported only by you and your family members. You may choose to take active part in the decisions that surround distribution of income from your fund or to leave this responsibility with Vancouver Foundation.

And you may tailor your contribution to your own charitable interests by choosing one or a combination of the four types of funds within Vancouver Foundation:

Unrestricted Funds allow your charitable giving to have the greatest possible impact. The income from this type of fund is applied to the community's most pressing current needs and has the flexibility to respond to problems as they emerge. All grants awarded from unrestricted funds are made only after applications for funding have been considered and approved by an Advisory Committee made up of informed community representatives.

Field of Interest Funds may be established with the income to be distributed through one or more of the Foundation's fields of interest, which are represented in this annual report. Gifts of this kind give broad discretion to the Advisory Committees to select the agencies that can most effectively achieve your charitable intent.

Advised Funds create a permanent and personal vehicle for charitable giving. During your lifetime, you or your chosen advisor(s) may suggest potential charities to benefit from your fund. When you or other designated advisors no longer wish, or are unable, to make recommendations, your fund can continue its charitable giving as an Unrestricted or Field of Interest Fund.

Designated Funds direct income to one or more specific charitable organizations. Vancouver Foundation will carry out your wishes so long as the named organizations function as they did when you started the fund. If an organization ceases to exist or substantially changes its purpose, Vancouver Foundation is empowered to redirect the income from your fund for a purpose similar to the one you selected.

No matter what type of fund you select, your family fund in effect becomes a living part of your family history. And it will go on giving in your name in accordance with your stated charitable wishes for the benefit of your grandchildren's generation, and all of the generations that follow thereafter. The ability of Vancouver Foundation over the last fifty years to improve the quality of life across the province has been made possible by the desire of individuals to leave a lasting legacy for the communities which contributed to their success. To help make donors more aware of the gifting options that are available to them, the Foundation has established a volunteer Development Advisory Committee and appointed two staff members to a new planned giving team. We welcome the opportunity to help you and your advisors in planning your personal charitable legacy. Please call Christopher Richardson, F.C.A., Director, Gift Planning at (604) 688-2204 to discuss how we may best assist you.

ARTISTS

Created by Vancouver Foundation 15 years ago, the Arts in Education program provides funding for all School Districts across British Columbia. The funding enables schools to engage performing and visual artists such as "Mortal Coil" to perform for their students. Our monies are matched by the community thereby creating a larger pool of funds which enables children to gain an appreciation for the arts and at the same time provides employment for over 400 artists.

PARENTING

The Indian Homemakers Association received a grant to assist in the delivery of a traditional parenting skills program aimed at helping young aboriginal mothers. The program teaches practical, healthy parenting skills and develops a sense of self-esteem and empowerment through lessons in traditional family health systems and history. Elements of the program include early childhood development, parent/child relations and nutrition. Interwoven throughout the contemporary teachings are traditional skills such as regalia making; the understandings derived from the medicine wheel and knowledge of family history.

Child and Family

Grant applications are considered for programs or projects designed to enable children, families, and communities throughout British Columbia to create caring, safe and supportive environments that enhance the quality of life for children.

SCIENCE

P4S engages parents in support of science education for children in elementary school. They are actively involved with teachers in hands-on science and in helping parents to understand the science education needs of their children. Their efforts are driven by the recognition that in today's world, knowledge of science, technology, engineering and mathematics is increasingly important.

Education

Through schools, post-secondary institutions, education agencies and community organizations, grants are made to enhance the quality and accessibility of educational opportunities for all learners in British Columbia.

Funds may be used to develop or demonstrate new education programs or alternative educational delivery systems, and for projects which promote excellence, involvement and positive attitudes regarding life-long learning and the valuing of education in our society.

WATERSHED

"The Comox Valley Project Watershed Society" received a grant to help train community "stewards" to protect, restore, inventory and monitor the Comox Valley Watershed. In addition, the Society aims to educate and heighten public awareness of water related issues. Its work has successfully motivated resource industries and their workers, private landowners, government and conservationists to join in a cooperative effort to care for the watershed upon which they all depend.

Facing Page > Norm Seiffert, one of the founders of Project Watershed, arrived in the Comox Valley in 1959. He adopted Portuguese Creek and through his example of protection and restoration of the stream, provided the model for the community's stewardship program.

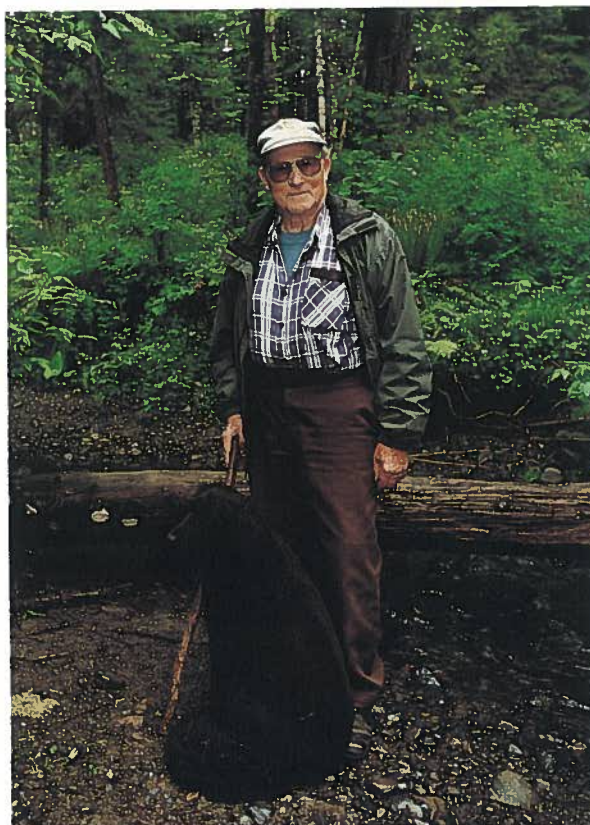

Environment

The Environment Advisory Committee strives to support projects based in British Columbia which are aimed at resolving environmental issues that effect the entire Province and which broaden the base of essential environmental knowledge. Grants are made to organizations which use representative and consensual processes in the development of strategies and supplementary research

P . A . C . E .

Prostitution Alternatives Counselling and Education Society (P.A.C.E.) received a grant from Vancouver Foundation to undertake an outreach, education and referral initiative which would assist sexually exploited individuals engaged in or at risk of entering prostitution. The two-year grant provides for a full-time advocacy worker and a part-time coordinator of services to work with street youth, schools, police, and community agencies to assist in finding alternatives and establishing preventative programs for youth at risk. The P.A.C.E. Society was founded by former prostitutes who recognized the lack of services available to persons engaged in prostitution. The organization provides critical access to housing, detox, food, clothing, emergency shelter, employment, job training and daycare and the means to help sex-trade workers find practical alternatives to the lives in which they are trapped.

Facing Page > The Co-founder and advocacy worker, both of whom are former sex-trade workers, have benefited from P.A.C.E. programming and helped its emergence as a real alternative.

Health and Welfare

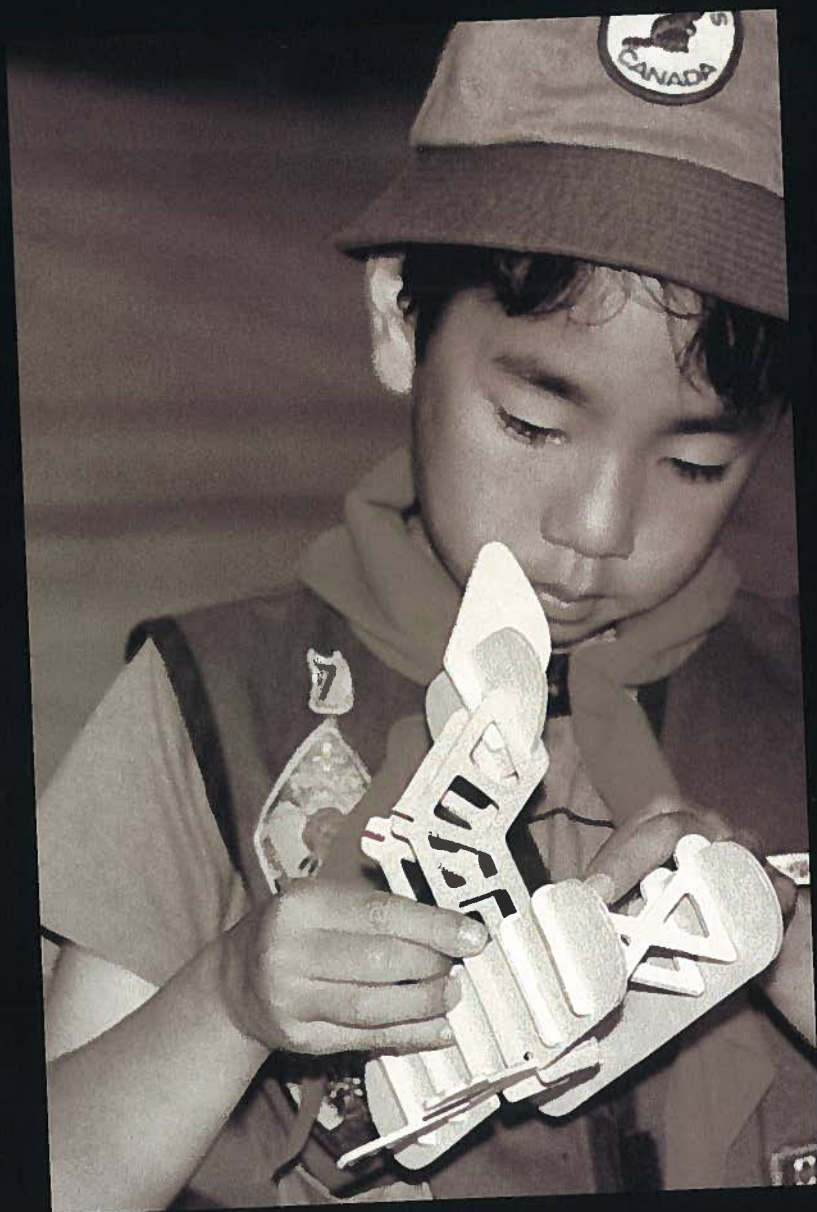

The Health and Welfare Advisory Committee considers applications for programs and projects which generate improvements in the quality of life of the adult population through prevention, counselling, treatment and social development; enhancing the capacity of individuals, families and communities to manage their own well-being; promoting an equitable and inclusive society.

SCOUTING

Scouts Canada, through the Burnaby Regional Council, received a grant to help them start the first comprehensive, multi-cultural initiative in Scouting British Columbia. The project is aimed at ensuring that Youth from all backgrounds feel welcome in Scouting and that the movement is representative of the communities it serves. The funding has enabled an Advisory Committee to be formed that is made up of representatives from ethno specific groups and multi-cultural agencies. Training methods have been modified to better meet cultural and community needs. Information has been translated and volunteer interpreters, together with a multi-cultural worker, have successfully recruited many more young people to Scouting from diverse ethnic backgrounds.

Youth Activities

Support is given to charitable organizations serving school age children and young adults. Applications are considered for activities which enable young people to be accepted and valued as contributing members of our society, address the needs of youth at risk, and which promote the well-being and social/cultural development of young people.

HEALTH CARE

Simon Fraser University's School of Kinesiology, through a grant from the B.C. Medical Services Foundation, has undertaken a research project on Exercise and Frailty in the Elderly. The research examines the effects of various interventions that could alter the physiological factors associated with frailty. It is hoped that the results may help in the design of facilities and programs for seniors. In addition, the research may also reduce the injuries from falls so often suffered by the elderly - a benefit which could help maintain their independence and potentially reduce health care costs.

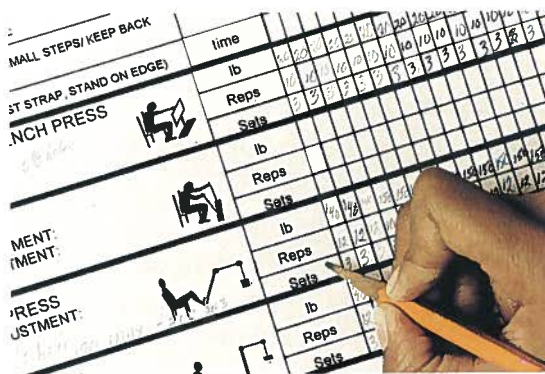

B.C. Medical Services Foundation

The British Columbia Medical Services Foundation was established under the administration of Vancouver Foundation in 1968 by court order upon the liquidation of B.C. Medical Services Incorporated. The Vancouver Foundation provides medical/health funding with similar objectives to those of B.C. Medical Services Foundation. The disbursement of the co-mingled funds from both Foundations is administered by Vancouver Foundation for the provision and extension of health services, research in medical and related sciences and for bursaries and scholarships to students in the health sciences.

Application Process

The following information will help explain the application process. If you require further information, please feel free to contact us at: Suite 1200, 555 West Hastings St., P.O. Box 12132, Vancouver, BC V6B 4N6 Telephone 604 688 2204 Fax 604 688 4170.

1. In order to determine if your project meets basic criteria and falls within our areas of interest, telephone or write to request a copy of our General Funding Guidelines and Advisory Committee Goals (Arts and Culture; Child and Family; Education; Environment; Health and Welfare; Youth). Note: Vancouver Foundation can only support registered charities so you must have a federal charitable tax number.

2. Once you have reviewed this material, prepare an outline of your proposed project. You are welcome to phone or meet with a Program Director to discuss your idea. However, the volume of requests is large and we have found that a written enquiry is most effective.

3. The proposal should be clear and brief (no more than 2-3 pages). It should provide the following information: > mandate of the applicant organization > needs or specific problems that the project will address > activities that the organization is proposing to undertake (plan of action) > proposed timeline > geographic scope of the project > indication of community support > projected budget including other funding sources and the amount requested from Vancouver Foundation Note: Vancouver Foundation does not provide 100% funding. We look for an investment by your own organization, contributions from the community and support from other funding sources.

4. The Program Director reviews your proposal to determine basic eligibility and viability. After making this preliminary assessment, the Program Director may write back for more information. If the Foundation is interested in considering the project, the Program Director invites you to submit an application. Since this pre-application process can take over a month, you are advised to send your enquiry at least four weeks before the application deadline.

5. Vancouver Foundation has three annual deadlines for receiving completed applications. They usually fall in early January, April and September. It takes approximately twelve weeks from the time you apply until you get the final decision. However, including the enquiry stage, an applicant should allow at least four months. Since the Vancouver Foundation does not provide retroactive funding, it is important to plan well in advance.

6. A five-page application form must be completed in full and submitted prior to the deadline. With the application, you are asked to provide specific attachments (e.g. your organization's Board of Directors and financial statements). The appropriate Advisory Committee will review only the material explicitly requested by Vancouver Foundation.

7. Prior to consideration by the Advisory Committee, the Program Director thoroughly assesses your application. You can expect to meet with or discuss by phone the details of your proposal with the Program Director. Occasionally, an Advisory Committee member will also contact an applicant. As part of the assessment, the Program Director routinely consults with other funders and informed people in the field.

8. Advisory Committees are made up of volunteers who are community leaders and respected professionals. At scheduled Advisory Committee meetings, members consider the staff report, discuss each application, and then make a funding recommendation. The Committee's funding recommendations are presented to the Distribution Committee (made up of those members of the Board of Directors who also chair the Advisory Committees). The Distribution Committee makes the final decision and approves all grants.

9. You receive a letter advising of the Board's decision and outlining the terms and conditions of any grant that has been awarded.

10. After a grant has been awarded, Vancouver Foundation expects the following: > interim and/or final reports > a possible site visit by the Program Director > approval from the Program Director prior to any substantial alterations in plan > proper fiscal management and reporting > acknowledgement of support from Vancouver Foundation.

Auditors' Report

To The Directors of Vancouver Foundation

We have audited the statements of financial position of Vancouver Foundation as at December 31, 1995 and 1994, and the statements of changes in contributed principal and the funds' income statements for the two years ended December 31, 1995 and 1994. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material mis-statement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Vancouver Foundation as at December 31, 1995 and 1994, the changes in contributed principal and the fund's income for the two years ended December 31, 1995 and 1994 in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements December 31, 1995

1. Purpose and status

Vancouver Foundation was established in 1943 and became incorporated through an Act of the Provincial Legislature in 1950. The income from funds donated and bequeathed to its perpetual endowment is used to provide for charitable purposes throughout British Columbia. Through its responsible and responsive stewardship, the Foundation serves three major constituencies: its donors, the charitable sector and the community. The Foundation is registered with the Charities Division, Revenue Canada, Taxation and is classified as a public foundation. As such it is exempt from federal income taxes and can issue charitable donation receipts.

2. Consolidated and other trust funds

The Consolidated Trust Fund comprises those assets over which the Foundation exercises discretionary investment control within guidelines established by the Board of Directors. The Other Trust Funds comprise those assets over which the Foundation does not exercise discretionary investment control and which are administered in accordance with specific directions from the donors.

3. Accounting policies

The following accounting policies used by Vancouver Foundation are stated below to assist in understanding the Foundation's financial statements.

BEQUESTS AND GRANTS Bequests are recorded upon receipt of the donated assets. Bequests in a form other than cash or marketable securities are recorded at values assigned by the Board of Directors. Grants are recorded when paid by the Foundation.

INVESTMENTS Investments within the Consolidated Trust Fund are valued at current market prices on the last business day of the fiscal period. Unrealized gains or losses arising as a result of the revaluation of investments to current market prices as well as any realized gains or losses arising from investment transactions are reflected as capital surplus. Investments within the Other Trust Funds are stated at cost and any realized gains or losses arising from investment transactions are included as part of contributed principal.

FIXED ASSETS Commencing in 1995, Vancouver Foundation capitalizes the cost of major capital additions and amortizes the cost of these assets over their estimated useful lives as follows:

Computer and office equipment	5 years straight line
Office furniture	10 years straight line
Leasehold improvements	straight line over the term of the lease (10 years)

Prior to 1995, the cost of fixed asset additions was expensed when incurred. This change in accounting for fixed assets has not been adjusted on a retroactive basis as the impact of doing so would not be material.

INVESTMENT INCOME Interest income on bonds, mortgages and short-term notes is accrued as earned. Dividends which have been declared are recorded as income on the date of record set for the dividend.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES Administrative expenses and trust company fees are recorded on an accrual basis.

4. Restrictions on principal and income

Substantially all of the contributed principal and capital surplus of the Vancouver Foundation and the income from contributed principal is restricted as to payment.

5. Transfer from W.J. VanDusen Foundation

During 1994, the W.J. VanDusen Foundation transferred all of its capital assets to the Vancouver Foundation. This transaction was effective February 28, 1994, with a total market value of $43 million (cost $38.1 million) being transferred. The W.J. VanDusen Foundation has been maintained as a non-operating entity incorporated under the Society Act of Alberta. Two of its Directors are officers of the Vancouver Foundation and the third Director is a Director of the Vancouver Foundation.

6. Fixed assets

	Cost	Accumulated amortization	Net
Computer and office equipment	$181,622	$ -	$181,622
Office furniture	31,563	1,578	29,985
Leasehold improvements	204,341	6,811	197,530
	$417,526	$8,389	$409,137

7. Trust Company and investment management fees, net of recoveries

In June 1993, the Foundation transferred the management of its Consolidated Trust Fund investments to three investment managers in anticipation of generating a higher return. Fees charged to the Foundation are based on a percent of the market value of investments.

8. Artwork

The Foundation owns artwork with an appraised value of $600,000 (1994 - $658,300). This artwork was bequeathed to the Foundation in 1990 and 1992. No amount has been recorded in the financial statements for this artwork. The Foundation's intention is to sell these paintings once market conditions are strong enough to maximize proceeds on disposition. Once disposed of, the amount received will be recorded as an investment in the Consolidated Trust Fund.

9. Commitments

Vancouver Foundation has firm grant commitments totalling $6,503,566 (1994 - $6,004,908) which will be paid out of distributable income as follows:

1996	$5,599,531
Subsequent years	904,035
	$6,503,566

In addition, Vancouver Foundation has grant commitments of $1,450,000 (1994 - $1,800,000) which will be made if supporting funds from other organizations are received. During 1995, Vancouver Foundation entered into a ten year lease agreement with the following commitments related to office rent:

1996	$ 156,674
1997	158,357
1998	163,404
1999	166,769
2000	176,864
Thereafter	860,619
	$1,682,687

In conjunction with this new lease agreement, Vancouver Foundation received $201,900 in lease inducements. These proceeds were used to finance leasehold improvements and are being amortized to distributable income on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease.

10. Statement of changes in financial position

A statement of changes in financial position has not been presented as management does not consider it meaningful in the circumstances.

11. Comparative figures

Certain comparative figures have been reclassified to conform to the current year's presentation.
